§ 2. The content of the Portal

1. The goal of the Portal is to enable Internet users to gain access to the resources shared on the Portal.

2. All rights to the Portal as a whole belong to the Publisher, while rights to individual elements of its content (i.e., texts, graphics, photographs, video materials, software and other elements protected by law) to Publishers or to natural or legal persons whose materials are lawfully shared by the Administrator on the Portal.

3. Both the Portal and its individual elements are subject to protection pursuant to laws, and in particular to the following regulations: the Act of 4 February 1994 on copyright and related rights (i.e. Polish Journal of Laws of 2006 no. 90 item 631, as further amended); the Act of 27 July 2001 on the protection of databases (Polish Journal of Laws of 2001 no. 128 item 1402, as further amended); the Act of 16 April 1993 on combating unfair competition (i.e. Polish Journal of Laws of 2003 no. 153 item 1503, as further amended), the Act of 30 June 2000 on industrial property (i.e. Polish Journal of Laws of 2003 no. 119, item 1117, as further amended).

4. The use of the Portal or any of its content's individual elements in a manner which is unlawful or contrary to the terms and conditions shall be subject to penalty under the provisions of civil and criminal law.

5. The pages of the Portal can also display links, materials and presentations containing references to third party offers or services. The extent and conditions of using third party offers and services are specified in separate terms and conditions set by such entities. The Publisher shall not be responsible for conditions and effects of using offers and services of such parties by users.

6. Users use the Portal at their own responsibility and risk. The Publisher does not guarantee that information presented on the Portal shall be correct, accurate or suitable for the purpose intended by the user and for which it has been searched for. The Publisher shall not be responsible for the consequences of the Portal use by the user, in particular for any decisions taken by the user on the basis of information obtained on the Portal or for materials placed by users on the Portal being used contrary to their intentions.

7. For technical reasons, the Publisher does not guarantee that information and materials transmitted via Internet through the Portal shall reach the user faultless, complete and in full. The Publisher does not guarantee that browsing pages shall take place without interruption, technical defects or that the user shall obtain precisely the information they were looking for. This disclaimer also applies to materials uploaded by the user.

§ 3. The use of the Portal

1. All Internet users visiting the Portal are granted access and opportunity to get acquainted with resources gathered there.

2. A Portal user is obliged to use the Portal with compliance to existing law regulations, good practices and provisions of these Terms and Conditions. The user using the Portal cannot undertake any actions, apply any technology and/or tools disrupting the operation of the Portal IT system.

3. The Publisher reserves the right to prevent access or remove materials uploaded on the Portal by Portal users committing severe and persistent infringements.

§4. Final provisions

1. The Terms and Conditions are effective from the moment of their publication on the Portal website. The Publisher reserves the right to introduce changes herein at any time.

2. In case of introducing any changes to the Terms and Conditions, the Publisher shall notify users about it without delay by means of the publication of their consolidated text on the Portal site.

3. Changes in the Terms and Conditions do not affect the effectiveness of rights acquired by the Publisher under the previous versions of the Terms and Conditions.

4. The Publisher shall make every effort with regard to the proper functioning of the Portal and individual services available there but is not responsible for the occurrence of stoppages in the functioning of the Portal or services available, should technical problems arise beyond the Publisher's control.

5. The Publisher reserves the right to temporarily take the Portal down, in part or in whole, for a technical break, as well as to introduce new functional solutions, including those increasing the security level and the quality of the Portal operation. The Publisher shall make every effort for such breaks to occur at night.

6. The Publisher reserves the right to suspend or discontinue providing some services, to change functionality within the scope of such services and to introduce other changes.

7. The Publisher reserves the right to assign, in part or in whole, its rights and obligations arising from publishing and/or administering the Portal to other entities, which the user hereby acknowledges and expresses their consent thereto.

8. All questions or remarks regarding the operation of the Portal should be reported to the Administrator by e-mail: contact@polanddaily24.com
